represented by the cost of—

(a) the direct labour involved in the manufacture of the goods; and

(b) any materials which were grown, produced or manufactured in the country concerned and which were used in the manufacture of the goods.

(2) Any reference in this Part to goods which have been produced shall be construed as a reference to goods which have not been subjected to any process of manufacture.

86 Customs duties

Subject to section ninety-eight, there shall be charged, levied, collected and paid in respect of goods which are imported customs duties at the appropriate rates provided in the customs tariff.

87 Classification of goods for customs purposes

(1) For the purpose of determining the customs duty payable in respect of any goods that are imported, the Commissioner or an officer shall classify such goods into the appropriate tariff headings, subheadings or codes in accordance with any rules set out in the customs tariff, paying due regard to—

(a) the explanatory notes to the Harmonised Commodity Description and Coding System, issued from time to time by the World Customs Organisation in Brussels; and

(b) decisions of the Harmonised Commodity Description and Coding System Committee.

[amended by Act 29 of 1998, and further by section 5 of PART III of Act 17 of 1999 with effect from the 19th January, 2001.]

(2) The Commissioner shall vary or set aside a classification of goods made in terms of subsection (1) if he is satisfied, whether on appeal by the importer of the goods or otherwise, that the classification was incorrect.

(3) Any classification of goods made in terms of this section shall be binding on the importer of the goods, subject to an appeal—

(a) to the Commissioner, where the classification was made by an officer;

or

(b) to the Fiscal Appeal Court in terms of the Fiscal Appeal Court Act [Chapter 23:05], where the classification was made, varied or confirmed by the Commissioner.

(4) The Commissioner shall ensure that at least one copy of—

(a) the publications referred to in paragraph (a) of subsection (1); and

(b) any decision referred to in paragraph (b) of subsection (1) on which he has relied for the purpose of classifying any goods;

is kept available for public inspection during normal business hours in his offices and at such other offices of the Department as he considers appropriate.

(5) If the classification of goods for the purposes of this Act is an issue in any proceedings before any court, a document purporting to be a copy of a publication or decision referred to in subsection (1), and purporting to be certified as correct by the Commissioner, shall be admissible in the proceedings as prima facie proof of its contents upon its production by any person.

[amended by PART III of Act 17 of 1999 with effect from the 19th January, 2001.]

88 Determination of origin of manufactured goods

For the purposes of this Act, the country of origin of any manufactured goods shall be the country in which the last process of manufacture has been performed.

89 Specified country content of goods subject to lower rates of duty than in customs tariff

(1) Subject to subsection (3), where goods which are grown, produced or manufactured in any country are, because of their origin, subject under the provisions of this Act to rates of duty which are lower than those set out in Part II of the customs tariff, such lower rates shall be allowed only—

(a) in the case of unmanufactured goods, where such goods have been wholly grown or produced in that country;

(b) in the case of manufactured goods, where such goods have been subjected to their last process of manufacture in that country and—

(i) have such local content in relation to that country as may be prescribed; or

(ii) have been subjected in that country to such process of manufacture as may be prescribed in relation to the class of goods to which such goods belong.

(2) Regulations made for the purposes of subsection (1) may provide for the manner in which or the authority by whom the determination of the local content of manufactured goods shall be made and the information to be supplied by importers in relation thereto.

(3) If any preference, rebate or remission of duty is granted in terms of any agreement in respect of goods grown, produced or manufactured in any country, the conditions as to the local content required in relation to the goods before such preference, rebate or remission is granted may be determined by special provision in such agreement and if no such special provision has been made, subsection (1) shall apply.

90 Anti-dumping duties

(1) For the purposes of this section, imported goods or goods likely to be imported shall be deemed to be dumped if the export price of such goods is less than—

(a) the domestic price of such goods, which means the price at which identical or comparable goods are being sold in the ordinary course of trade in the country of exportation or, where such price is fixed by the government in the country of exportation, such price as the investigating authority may determine; or

(b) if there is no domestic price in terms of paragraph (a), any of the following—

(i) the highest comparable price for identical or comparable goods when exported from the country of exportation and sold in any other foreign country in the ordinary course of trade; or

(ii) the cost of production or manufacture of the goods plus such amount in respect of administration, selling and other costs and profit as the investigating authority may consider reasonable; or

(iii) where the cost referred to in subparagraph (ii) cannot be ascertained by the investigating authority or is considered by the investigating authority to be subject to any form of government control, such domestic price as the investigating authority may determine; or

(c) the cost of production or manufacture of the goods plus such amount in respect of administration, selling and other costs and profit as the investigating authority may consider reasonable:

Provided that imported goods shall not be deemed to be dumped by reason only of the exemption of such goods from duties or taxes borne by identical or comparable goods destined for consumption or use in the country of exportation or by reason of the refund of such duties or taxes.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1)—

(a) the comparison of prices contemplated in that subsection shall be made at the same level of trade and in respect of sales made at as nearly as possible the same time;

(b) where there is no export price or it appears to the investigating authority that the export price is unreliable because of an association or compensatory arrangements between the supplier and the importer or a third party, the investigating authority may determine the export price on the basis of the price at which the imported goods are first re-sold to an independent buyer or, if they are not re-sold to an independent buyer or are not re-sold in the condition in which they were imported, on such basis as the investigating authority thinks fit.

(3) The margin of dumping deemed, for the purposes of this section, to have taken place or to be likely to take place shall be the difference in prices contemplated in subsection (1).

(4) If, after considering the report of an investigating authority, the Minister is satisfied that—

(a) any goods have been or are being or are likely to be imported in circumstances in which they are deemed in terms of subsection (1) to be dumped; and

(b) the effect of such importation has been or will be to cause or threaten detriment to an established industry in Zimbabwe or to affect detrimentally the establishment or expansion of an industry in Zimbabwe; and

(c) it would be in the public interest to impose an anti-dumping duty in respect of such goods;

he shall, by notice in the Gazette, impose such antidumping duty in respect of goods of that class as will, in his opinion, offset the dumping.

(5) An anti-dumping duty—

(a) shall not exceed the margin of dumping referred to in subsection (3); and

(b) may, where a provisional anti-dumping charge has been levied in respect of the goods concerned, be imposed with effect from a date which is prior to the date of publication of the notice in the Gazette but is not prior to the date with effect from which such provisional anti-dumping charge was levied.

91 Provisional anti-dumping charge

(1) If at any time the Minister is of the opinion that prima facie the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of subsection (4) of section ninety apply in relation to any goods which have been or are being or are likely to be imported, he may, by notice in the Gazette, impose a provisional anti-dumping charge on goods of that class for a period not exceeding three months from the date of publication of such notice, which charge shall not exceed the amount that it is estimated would constitute the margin of dumping referred to in subsection (3) of section ninety.

(2) The period for which the provisional antidumping charge has been imposed may, before the expiration thereof, be extended by the Minister, by notice in the Gazette, for a further period not exceeding three months if he is so requested by the exporter and the importer concerned.

(3) A provisional anti-dumping charge shall be paid on goods subject to that charge at the time of their entry for consumption or for warehousing as security for any anti-dumping duty that may be imposed on such goods and shall be brought to account in such manner as the Commissioner may direct.

[amended by PART III of Act 17 of 1999 with effect from the 19th January, 2001.]

(4) Where—

(a) an anti-dumping duty is imposed with retrospective effect in respect of goods in relation to which a provisional anti-dumping charge has been levied, the amount of the charge which has been paid shall be set off against the anti-dumping duty which is payable and if such amount—

(i) is greater than the anti-dumping duty payable, the balance shall be refunded to the importer on application;

(ii) is less than the anti-dumping duty payable, the balance shall become due and payable by the importer on demand being made by the proper officer;

(b) no anti-dumping duty is imposed in respect of goods in relation to which a provisional anti-dumping charge has been levied or such a duty is imposed but not with retrospective effect, the amount collected in respect of such charge shall be refunded to the importer on application.

92 Countervailing duties

(1) For the purposes of this section, a bounty or subsidy shall be deemed to be granted if it is granted—

(a) directly or indirectly, on the growth, production, manufacture or exportation of goods, whether by way of grant, loan, tax relief or otherwise and whether related directly to the goods themselves, to materials included in the goods or to anything else; or

(b) by way of a special subsidy on the transport of any particular goods.

(2) If, after considering the report of an investigating authority, the Minister is satisfied that—

(a) a bounty or subsidy in respect of goods which have been or are being or are likely to be imported has been or will be granted within the meaning of subsection (1) in the country in which such goods were grown, produced or manufactured or from which they were or are to be exported; and

(b) the effect of the granting of such bounty or subsidy has been or will be to cause or threaten detriment in an established industry in Zimbabwe or to affect detrimentally the establishment or expansion of an industry in Zimbabwe; and

(c) it would be in the public interest to impose a countervailing duty in respect of such goods;

he shall, by notice in the Gazette, impose such countervailing duty in respect of goods of that class as will, in his opinion, offset the granting of such bounty or subsidy.

(3) A countervailing duty shall not exceed the amount as determined by the investigating authority of the bounty or subsidy referred to in paragraph (a) of subsection (2).

(4) A countervailing duty shall not be imposed on any imported goods by reason only of—

(a) the exemption of such goods from duties or taxes borne by identical or comparable goods destined for consumption or use in the country of exportation; or

(b) the refund of any duties or taxes referred to in paragraph (a).

93 General provisions regarding anti-dumping and countervailing duties

(1) Unless the Minister has, by notice in the Gazette, specified to the contrary, an anti-dumping duty, provisional anti-dumping charge or countervailing duty shall not apply to raw, semi-manufactured or manufactured materials or requisites of any industry which are entered for use in the manufacture, assembly or refining of any article within Zimbabwe under a rebate or remission of the ordinary duty prescribed in regulations referred to in paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of section one hundred and twenty providing for such matters.

(2) Subject to this Act, the goods specified in a notice made in terms of section ninety or ninety-two shall, from the date of publication of such notice in the Gazette or such earlier date as may be specified in a notice made in terms of section ninety, be liable to the appropriate anti-dumping duty or countervailing duty provided for in the notice, and such anti-dumping duty or countervailing duty shall be paid by the importer, in addition to any other duty payable thereon, on the entry for consumption or for warehousing of such goods.

(3) An anti-dumping duty and a countervailing duty shall not be imposed on the same imported goods in order to compensate for the same situation of dumping or the granting of a bounty or subsidy.

(4) Whenever any anti-dumping duty or countervailing duty is imposed on any goods, the importer or owner of any such goods which have been warehoused in terms of Part VI shall produce the invoice and such other documents relating to the goods as the proper officer may require and shall forthwith pay the antidumping duty or countervailing duty that is due on such goods.

(5) Notwithstanding the provisions of sections ninety and ninety-two, the Commissioner may, subject to such conditions as he thinks fit, remit the anti-dumping duty or countervailing duty due on any goods which are imported in such circumstances or in such quantities that the importation of such goods does not, in his opinion, constitute a regular importation of such goods for the purposes of trade.

[amended by PART III of Act 17 of 1999 with effect from the 19th January, 2001.]

(6) For the purposes of sections ninety, ninety-one and ninety-two, where any cost or price is expressed in the currency of a foreign country, conversion to the currency of Zimbabwe shall be made in accordance with section one hundred and eight.

(7) The Minister may at any time, by notice in the Gazette, repeal a notice in terms of subsection (4) of section ninety, subsection (1) of section ninety-one or subsection (2) of section ninety-two.

94 Confirmation of anti-dumping duty, provisional anti-dumping charge or countervailing duty

(1) The Minister shall lay a copy of a notice in terms of subsection (4) of section ninety, subsection (1) of section ninety-one or subsection (2) of section ninety-two and a statement of the reasons for the publication of the notice before Parliament—

(a) in the case of a notice published when Parliament is sitting or is adjourned for seven days or less or when Parliament is prorogued for seven days or less, within fourteen days of the publication of the notice or, if before the copy of the notice and statement are so laid Parliament is dissolved or is prorogued for more than seven days or Parliament is adjourned for more than seven days, within fourteen days after the next sitting of Parliament;

(b) in the case of a notice published when Parliament is dissolved or is prorogued for more than seven days or Parliament is adjourned for more than seven days, within fourteen days of the next sitting of Parliament or, if before the copy of the notice and the statement are so laid Parliament is dissolved or is prorogued for more than seven days Parliament is adjourned for more than seven days, within fourteen days after the next sitting of Parliament.

(2) If Parliament does not by resolution approve a notice, a copy of which is laid before it in terms of subsection (1), before Parliament is next dissolved or is next prorogued for more than seven days, the notice shall cease to be of force on the day Parliament is so dissolved or prorogued or the day Parliament is so adjourned.

95 Excise duties

There shall be charged, levied, collected and paid in respect of goods which are manufactured or produced within Zimbabwe, excise duties at the appropriate rates provided in the excise tariff.

96 Classification of goods for excise purposes

(1) For the purpose of assessing the amount of any duty payable on any imported goods and for the purpose of any declaration or oath which may be required by this Act or any other enactment in relation to any question of value or duty in connection with the importation of goods or goods which are likely to be imported, the value of such goods shall, subject to this Act, be the transaction value thereof as established or determined in terms of sections one hundred and six to one hundred and twelve.

(2) If the value of any goods required to be entered separately is one dollar or less, no account shall be taken of such value.

106 Transaction value: primary method of valuation

(1) Subject to this Act, the value for duty purposes of any imported goods shall be the transaction value of the goods, that is to say, the price actually paid or payable for the goods when sold for export to Zimbabwe, adjusted in terms of section one hundred and thirteen, if—

- (a) there are no restrictions as to the disposal or use of the goods by the buyer, other than restrictions which—

- (d) subject to subsection (2), the buyer and the seller are not related.

(2) The fact that a buyer and a seller are related shall not in itself be a ground for not accepting the transaction value, where—

- (a) in the opinion of the Commissioner, such relationship did not influence the price actually paid or payable for the goods concerned; or
- (b) the importer proves to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the transaction value closely approximates to one of the following values—
 - (i) the transaction value of identical or similar goods sold at or about the same time as the goods to be valued at comparable commercial and quantity levels to buyers in Zimbabwe who are not related; or

(ii) the value, determined in terms of section one hundred and nine, of identical or similar goods imported into Zimbabwe at or about the same time as the goods to be valued.

[amended by PART III of Act 17 of 1999 with effect from the 19th January, 2001.]

107 Transaction value of identical goods: first alternative method

(1) Subject to section one hundred and eight and of this section, if the value for duty purposes of any imported goods cannot be established in terms of section one hundred and six, their value for duty purposes shall be the transaction value of identical goods which are—

(a) sold for export to Zimbabwe at the same commercial level and in substantially the same quantity as the goods to be valued; and

(b) exported to Zimbabwe at or about the same time as the goods to be valued.

(2) Where no sale such as is referred to in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) is found, the value for duty purposes of the imported goods concerned shall be established for the purposes of this section by a sale of identical goods that are sold for export to Zimbabwe at a different commercial level and additionally, or alternatively, in different quantities from the goods to be valued, adjustments being made to take account of differences in price attributed to commercial level and additionally, or alternatively, to quantity.

(3) In establishing the value for duty purposes of any imported goods in terms of this section, all adjustment shall be made to take account of significant differences in the costs and charges referred to in section one hundred and thirteen between the goods to be valued and the identical goods concerned arising from differences in distances and modes of transport.

(4) If, in the application of this section, more than one transaction value is determined, the lowest such value shall be taken as the value for duty purposes of the goods to be valued.

(5) An importer who wishes any imported goods to be valued in terms of this section shall, on request, produce to the proper officer either—

(a) a copy of a bill of entry on the basis of which the Department accepted the value of imported goods which were identical to the goods to be valued and which were entered within three months of the date of the goods to be valued; or

(b) sufficient information to enable the proper officer to trace a bill of entry referred to in paragraph (a).

108 Transaction value of similar goods: second alternative method

(1) Subject to section one hundred and nine and of this section, if the value for duty purposes of any imported goods cannot be established in terms of section one hundred and six or one hundred and seven, their value for duty purposes shall be the transaction value of similar goods that are—

(a) sold for export to Zimbabwe at the same commercial level and in substantially the same quantity as the goods to be valued; and

(b) exported to Zimbabwe at or about the same time as the goods to be valued.

(2) Subsections (2) to (5) of section one hundred and seven shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to the valuation of goods in terms of this section as if references in those subsections to identical goods were references to similar goods.

109 Deductive value: third alternative method

(1) Subject to the provisions of section one hundred and eleven, if the value for duty purposes of any imported goods cannot be established in terms of section one hundred and six, one hundred and seven or one hundred and eight, their value for duty purposes shall be established in terms of this section:

Provided that, if prior to the commencement of the valuation of any imported goods the importer so requests, the Commissioner shall attempt to determine their value in terms of section one hundred and ten and, if their value cannot be so determined, it shall then be established in terms of this section.

[amended by PART III of Act 17 of 1999 with effect from the 19th January, 2001.]

(2) Subject to this section, if the goods to be valued, or identical or similar imported goods, are sold in Zimbabwe at or about the time of importation of the goods to be valued and in the same condition as that in which they were imported, the value for duty purposes of the goods to be valued shall be based on the unit price at which the goods to be valued, or the identical or similar imported goods, as the case may be, are so sold in Zimbabwe in the greatest aggregate quantity to persons who are not related to the importer.

(3) If the goods to be valued, or identical or similar imported goods, are not sold in Zimbabwe at or about the time of importation of the goods to be valued but are otherwise sold in Zimbabwe as provided in subsection (2), the value for duty purposes of the goods to be valued shall be based, subject to this section, on the unit price at which the goods to be valued, or identical or similar imported goods, as the case may be, are sold in the greatest aggregate quantity in such a sale transacted at the earliest date after the importation of the goods to be valued, but not later than ninety days after such importation.

(4) If the goods to be valued, or identical or similar imported goods, are not sold in Zimbabwe in the same condition as that in which they were imported, then, whether or not the importer so requests, the value for duty purposes of the goods to be valued shall be based, subject to this section, on the unit price at which the goods to be valued, or the identical or similar imported goods, as the case may be, are sold after further processing in the greatest aggregate quantity to persons in Zimbabwe who are not related to the importer.

(5) In valuing goods in terms of this section, deductions shall be made, where appropriate, for—

(a) commissions usually paid or agreed to be paid, or additions usually made for profit and general expenses, in connection with sales in Zimbabwe of goods of the same class or kind as the goods to be valued, irrespective of the county of exportation;

(b) any costs of transportation and the cost of loading, unloading, handling and insurance and associated costs incidental to the transportation of the goods within Zimbabwe from their place of importation;

(c) any duty or tax payable in Zimbabwe by reason of the importation or sale of the goods;

(d) in the case of goods to which the provisions of subsection (4) apply, any increase in the value attributable to the further processing referred to in that subsection.

(6) For the purpose of establishing the unit price of any goods in terms of this section, an officer may accept a sales invoice or price list relating to the goods concerned at the relevant time.

110 Computed value: fourth alternative method

(1) Subject to section one hundred and eleven and this section, if the value for duty purposes of any imported goods cannot be established in terms of section one hundred and six, one hundred and seven, one hundred and eight or one hundred and nine, their value for duty purposes shall be the computed value of the goods as determined by the Commissioner in terms of this section.

[amended by PART III of Act 17 of 1999 with effect from the 19th January, 2001.]

(2) The computed value of any imported goods shall be an amount computed in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and shall be arrived at on the basis of information supplied by the producer of the goods in question, taking into account the following factors—

(a) the value of the materials used in producing the goods to be valued; and

(b) the costs, charges and expenses incurred by the producer in, or in connection with, the production of the goods to be valued; and

(c) packing costs or charges for materials or labour incurred in connection with the goods to be valued; and

(d) the value of any of the goods and services referred to in paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of section one hundred and thirteen, determined and apportioned to the goods being imported as referred to in that section, whether or not such goods and services have been supplied free of charge or at a reduced cost; and

(e) the cost of transport and insurance and associated costs incidental to delivery of the imported goods at the port or place of export in the country of exportation; and

(f) profit and general expenses usually added by producers in the country of export in sales of goods of the same class or kind as the goods to be valued when sold by the producers to purchasers who are not related to those producers at the time of the sale.

111 Fall-back method of valuation: final alternative method

(1) If the value for duty purposes of any imported goods, other than non-merchandise goods as defined in subsection (1) of section one hundred and twelve, cannot be established or determined in terms of sections one hundred and six to one hundred and ten, the Commissioner shall establish it, subject to this section—

(a) on the basis of a previous determination; or

(b) by applying any of the provisions of section one hundred and six to one hundred and nine with such modifications and adaptations as he considers reasonable and necessary in the circumstances; or

(c) by using any other reasonable means consistent with the principles and general provisions of the Agreements as the Commissioner considers appropriate in the circumstances of the particular case.

(2) The Commissioner shall base any determination in terms of subsection (1) on information available in Zimbabwe.

(3) The Commissioner shall not base any determination in terms of subsection (1) on any of the following—

(a) the selling price in Zimbabwe of goods manufactured in Zimbabwe; or

(b) a system which provides for the acceptance of the higher of two alternative values; or

(c) the price of goods on the domestic market of the country of exportation of the goods to be valued; or

(d) the cost of production of the goods to be valued or of identical or similar goods; or

(e) the price of the goods to be valued, when sold for export to a country other than Zimbabwe; or

(f) a system of minimum customs values; or

(g) arbitrary or fictitious values.

(4) Whenever the transaction value of imported goods is to be determined in terms of this section, the importer shall produce to the proper officer such documentary evidence relating to the determination as the proper officer may require.

[amended by PART III of Act 17 of 1999 with effect from the 19th January, 2001.]

111A Method of valuation in cases where truth of accuracy of importer's statement is in doubt

If the Commissioner or proper officer has reason to doubt the truth or accuracy of any statement made by the importer of any goods for the purposes of determining the transaction value of the goods in terms of section one hundred and six—

(a) the Commissioner or proper officer shall require the importer to provide further information to prove the accuracy of the statement; and

(b) if, after considering any further information that the importer may have provided in terms of paragraph (a), the Commissioner or proper officer still doubts the truth or accuracy of the statement, he shall reject the statement and require the goods to be valued by whichever of the methods defined in sections one hundred and seven to one hundred and eleven is appropriate.

[amended by PART III of Act 17 of 1999 with effect from the 19th January, 2001.]

112 Valuation of goods imported privately

(1) In this section—

“non-merchandise goods” means goods imported by an individual for his own use in Zimbabwe but not for trade purposes.

(2) If, in the opinion of the Commissioner, the declared value for duty purposes of non-merchandise goods—

(a) does not reflect a bona fide open market sale price between unrelated parties; or

(b) has not been established or has been incorrectly declared by the importer;

the Commissioner may determine the value on the basis of a previous determination or, if there is no such determination, by applying any of the provisions of section one hundred and six to one hundred and ten, with such modifications and adaptations as he considers reasonable and on the basis of any information available to him.

[amended by PART III of Act 17 of 1999 with effect from the 19th January, 2001.]

113 Adjustments to be made in calculating value for duty purposes of imported goods

(1) In determining the value for duty purposes of any imported goods in terms of section one hundred and six, there shall be added to the price actually paid or payable for the goods—

(a) the following, to the extent that they are incurred by the buyer but are not included in the price actually paid or payable—

(i) commission and brokerage except buying commission incurred in the actual purchase of the goods; and

(ii) the cost of containers which are treated as being one for customs purposes with the goods in question; and

(iii) the cost of packing, whether for labour or materials;
and

(b) the value, apportioned to the imported goods as considered appropriate by the Commissioner, of any of the following goods and services if supplied directly or indirectly by the importer free of charge or at reduced cost, for use in connection with the production and sale for export of the imported goods, to the extent that such value has not been included in the price actually paid or payable—

(i) materials, components, parts and similar items incorporated in the goods to be valued; and

(ii) tools, dies, moulds and similar articles used in the production of the goods to be valued; and

(iii) materials consumed in the production of the goods to be valued; and

and

(c) royalties and licence fees, including any payments for patents, trade marks or copyright and for the right to distribute or resell the goods, but not including charges for the right to reproduce the goods in Zimbabwe, which the buyer is required to pay, directly or indirectly, as a condition of sale of the goods for export to Zimbabwe, to the extent that such royalties and fees are not included in the price actually paid or payable for the goods to be valued; and

(d) the value of any part of the proceeds of any subsequent resale disposal or use of the goods to be valued that accrues directly or indirectly to the seller.

(2) In determining the value for duty purposes of any imported goods in terms of sections one hundred and six to one hundred and twelve, there shall be added to the price actually paid or payable for the goods—

(a) the cost of transport and insurance from the place of manufacture to the place of export and all other charges and expenses incidental to placing the goods on board the means of transport by which the goods are removed from the country of exportation, if such cost is not included in the price actually paid or payable for the goods to be valued; and

(b) if the goods in question have to be exported to Zimbabwe through another country, freight, insurance and other charges from the country of supply to the country where the goods are placed on board the means of transport for direct transportation to Zimbabwe, if such cost is not included in the price actually paid or payable for the goods to be valued; and

(c) the cost of freight and insurance from the place where the goods were placed on board the means of transport by which they were removed to Zimbabwe to the place of importation in Zimbabwe, if such cost is not included in the price actually paid or payable for the goods to be valued:

Provided that—

(i) where the goods to be valued were imported by air transport, the cost of freight and insurance shall be deemed to be fifteen per centum of the free on board value of the goods to be valued plus any charges and expenses referred to in paragraph (b), unless the importer satisfies the proper officer to the contrary;

(ii) where the goods to be valued were imported by air transport free of charge or at reduced cost or are commercial goods brought in as passengers' baggage, the cost of freight and insurance shall be deemed to be fifteen per centum of the free on board value of the goods to be valued plus charges and expenses referred to in paragraph (b);

B. seven and one-half per centum of the free on board value of the goods, in addition to the proved sea, air or other freight charges from the country of original export, where applicable, when the goods were transported from any country in Africa other than a country referred to in paragraph A of this proviso;

(v) an importer shall, on demand, produce to an officer a statement of air, sea and other freight charges whenever goods referred to in subparagraph A or B of proviso (iv) are to be valued; and

(d) in the case of goods imported by post, all charges for postage and insurance which are reflected on or in any document accompanying the postal article:

Provided that, where the postage and insurance cannot be ascertained in this manner, the postage and insurance shall be deemed to be fifteen per centum of the free on board value of the goods to be valued.

(3) In determining the value for duty purposes of any imported goods in terms of sections one hundred and six to one hundred and twelve, there shall be deducted from the price actually paid or payable for the goods, to the extent that they are included therein amounts equal to—

(a) the cost of transportation, loading, unloading, handling, insurance and associated costs incidental to the transportation of the goods within Zimbabwe from their place of importation; and

(b) buying commission, if identified separately from the price actually paid or payable for the goods.

114 Bill of entry or release of goods not to constitute valuation

Neither the acceptance by an officer of a bill of entry stating the value of any imported goods nor the release by an officer of any imported goods following the presentation of such a bill of entry shall constitute a determination of the value of such goods for the purposes of this Part.

115 Conversion of foreign currency and payment of duty in foreign currency in certain cases

(1) When the value or cost of any imported goods, or any element that is required to be included in such value or cost, is expressed in the currency of a foreign country, it shall be converted to the currency of Zimbabwe at the selling rate for that foreign currency, as designated by the Commissioner in consultation with the Reserve Bank of Zimbabwe, applicable as a customs rate at the time the goods concerned were entered in terms of this Act:
